Q4 2026	4 January 2027

Carbon compliance isn't a future risk—it's today's line item. The CBAM price directly mirrors the weighted average of EU ETS auction clearing prices. As EU emissions rules tighten, imported embedded carbon costs are surging. 2026 is CBAM applicable year. Right now, prices are calculated and published quarterly. But starting in 2027, the EU switches to weekly price tracking on the central platform. Read more...

How Fastener Industry is Mastering CBAM Before Fines Hit

EU CBAM has started to impact more sectors within the iron and steel category. For example, cbam fasteners has emerged to be one of the most impacted sectors since January 2026.

The EU cbam for fasteners manufacturers has become a pricing issue and market expansion hurdle. Carbon Border Adjustment Mechanism asks for direct emissions and raw materials data for the fasteners products exported to the EU. Read more...

How Plasser India Resolved EU Custom Delays due to CBAM

Plasser India

Plasser India's machinery relies heavily on structural steel, forged alloy components, and aluminium fabrications—all falling directly under EU CBAM regulation categories (specifically CN codes under Heading 72, 73, and 76). As exports of these heavy units and spare parts to the European Union expanded, European buyers began requesting verified, installation-level embedded emissions calculations to clear customs under the EU CBAM Transitional Registry. But how did it execute its CBAM compliance? Read more...
